

The track leads to a firm gravelled path before reaching Heath Lane 6. As you follow the track admire the view of Pakenham Windmill ahead. Take extreme care crossing the main road 7, and then head uphill along Cutters Lane. As you reach the rise you cross the line of a Roman Road which ran from Chelmsford to The Wash (now the Peddars Way). On the left was the Roman Fort that stood on the outskirts of Ixworth.

The grassy track takes you to two Copper Beech trees, and all that remains of Brewster's Farm. Brewster's Farm was once owned by Reginald Appleyard. During the 1930's he developed the famous all white 'Ixworth Chickens'.

Western Loop (1 mile, 1.5km)
Instead of turning left at 5 continue past a private track on the right to the end of the copse on the left where you turn left along a shallow ditch past a small copse and then follows a deep ditch until it meets Heath Lane. Turn left and walk past Gameclose Cove to rejoin the main route 6.

Pakenham Windmill 8 is one of two working mills in Pakenham and is a five storey, tarred brick tower mill built in 1831. It was fully restored in 2000 and is in full working order.

This 'green lane' was the original medieval highway from Ixworth to Great Livermere and Troston. On both sides are ditches, remnants of fishponds used by the Augustinian Canons of Ixworth Abbey 3 which you can see across the meadow on your left. Founded in 1172, the Abbey and its lands were 'acquired' in 1537 by Henry VIII and the house later passed into private hands. The facade you see today dates from the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries but the medieval core and crypt still remain.

Pause awhile at Hempyard Bridge 4, a former packhorse bridge, under the shade of a fine Black Poplar and play 'Pooch sticks' as you look at the pleasant views of the River Blackbourne. Continue between open fields towards a small plantation and swing right up a slope towards an uncluttered skyline. Turning round you can enjoy a panoramic view of the village.

Location

Ixworth is 6 miles north east of Bury St Edmunds, just off the A143 Bury to Diss road.

Free parking is available in front of the village hall, opposite the Church of St Mary the Virgin, at the southern end of High Street. All walks start from there.

Terrain: Generally level walk on footpaths, bridleways and quiet lanes with no steep hills or stiles. All walks do include crossing the A143 which needs great care. The Roman Trail includes steps to the A143 crossing. In wet weather paths will be muddy so may be less suitable for pushchair and wheelchair users

From the Village Hall across the High Street to the Church of St. Mary the Virgin 1. At the time of the Domesday survey (1086) there was a Norman church and today the oldest surviving structures are the Priest's door and the chancel arch (1200). Notice the flint flushwork patterns on the tower and the angel roof inside.

Start: Park at the Village Hall/Library
Distance: 4 miles (6.5km) or 5 miles (8kms) with western loop
Duration: approx 2-3 hours

Carry on down Thieves Lane and over Fulmer Bridge to the junction with Fen Road. Turn left and continue to another T-junction where you turn left onto Mill Road 9. In a short distance you will reach Pakenham Watermill 10.

Pakenham Watermill dates from the 18th century and is the last working watermill in Suffolk. For over 1000 years millers have been using waterpower to produce stone ground wholemeal flour from locally grown wheat. Today, the mill is maintained and operated by a team of dedicated volunteers who continue this tradition. It is open to visitors and has a tearoom and a programme of events throughout the year (contact 01379 783 554, pakenhamwatermill.org.uk)

Past the watermill enjoy beautiful views over the 17 hectares of the Mickle Mere 11, a low lying seasonal wetland owned by the Suffolk Wildlife Trust. On your right is the entrance to a bird hide, full of fascinating information including the Suffolk Barn Owl project. Do read the wildlife records book. The mere dries out during the summer but at other times regularly floods providing excellent opportunities to see many species of migrating waterfowl. The mere is also home to a variety of mammals including otters and water voles.

Returning to Mill Road, continue to the A143 and take great care crossing the road. Walk to the left and then right to enter the southern end of High Street. Many of the houses along High Street date from 14th-16th century. Notice Tollgate Cottage on your right and the half timbered Bridge Farm just before you cross the River Blackbourne.

Riverside Trail

Start: Park at the Village Hall/Library
Distance: 3 miles (5km)
Duration: approx 1-2 hours

From the Village Hall car park turn left down the High Street to the village sign. This is the site of the original market granted by Richard II in 1384. There are 4 medieval houses; Ridgetile House on your left (late 14th century); Dover Farm (16th century) named after a Mary Dover who occupied in the mid 1800s; Holmlea (16th century) and Cyder House (15th century).

Turn left along Stow Road and before the roundabout, cross to follow the path through the trees along the bank. This takes you under the A143 flyover to the riverside.

Through the kissing gate follow the well walked path, following the roadside fence until the river bend after which you continue beside the river. Turn left at the next fence to leave the riverside via a gate. Carefully cross the road to the field opposite where you turn right and to walk along the edge of a field to safely re-cross the road at the old pumping station 12. Follow Baileypool Lane, over Baileypool Bridge to the junction with Mill Road where you join the Ixworth Circular Walk 9.

The Roman Trail

Start: Park at the Village Hall/Library
Distance: 2 miles (3km)
Duration: approx 1 hour

From the Village Hall car park turn right along the High Street past The Pykkerell Hotel and then right down Crown Lane. At the end of Crown Lane take the steps down to the A143. Take great care crossing the road.

Continue straight ahead along Crown Lane where, to the right, on the sloping field with sweeping views to Mickle Mere, once stood a substantial Roman Villa. This was first discovered in 1834 and excavated in 1849 and then again in 1948 by Basil Brown, famous for his work at Sutton Hoo.

What's in a name?

Ixworth is probably a corruption of the Saxon Gyrsa or Gisca, meaning soil or place.

At the end of the field turn right and walk beside the field towards the old Pumping Station 12. Carefully cross the road to follow Baileypool Lane to join the Ixworth Circular Walk 9.
